MARVEL COMICS

writer Ron Marz, whose 50-plus issue run on that mag ends next week. The story features the Surfer, devastated over his breakup with his beloved Shalla-Bai, confronting the mighty Galactus, and demanding that the Big G take the Surfer's powers away! But no man makes demands of Galactus! This results in a cosmic clash which sets the universe a-trembling!

"I really wanted to go out with a bang," Ron continued, "and present Galactus in as epic proportions as possible. I wanted to convey his majesty and grandeur." The art team for the SILVER

SURFER is penciler Tom Grubb and inker Jason Martin. "The pencils look amazing," Ron enthused. "Tom really put a lot of work into the splash pages. There's just an incredible amount of detail on every page!"

ITEM! It's a fantastic voyage into the bloodstream of Captain America in the pages of IRON MAN #314! Editor Nel Yomtov explained, "Cap is in need of some micro-surgery, due to his rapidly deteriorating health. Hank Pym reduces Iron Man and sends him into Cap's bloodstream, so he can implant some micro-software to save Cap's life." Nel summed up the issue as "One old friend bailing out another when he needs him most." The issue is brought to you by writer Len Kaminski and penciler/inker Tom Morgan. Nel called issue #314 "the most consistent and solid inking Tom's done since he's been on the book. He has unbelievable enthusiasm for IRON MAN — he's always loved the character — and this is the one where he really comes into his own." Nel added that the issue also paves the way for the return of two classic Iron-foes, the Titanium Man and the Crimson Dynamo!

ITEM! Here's writer Tom DeFalco on his two mighty Marvels coming out next week: "In FANTASTIC FOUR #398, the FF battle the Inhumans... they confront the Watcher... and they are attacked by a brand-new being called He Who Sumsmons. Also in this issue, we find out the secret behind the flaming apparitions of Sue, Johnny Storm is injured... and there are two or three cliffhangers!" The art team for FANTASTIC FOUR remains Paul Ryan and Danny Bulanadi.

Meanwhile, THUNDERSTRIKE #18, offers what Tom calls "Thrills and chills in the mighty Masterson manner! Thunderstrike joins forces with Bloodaxe to battle Seth, the God of Death. In the course of the battle, events will be set into motion which will build up to the big #25" — an issue which will change Thunderstrike forever! (Really!) Tom added, "There is a bonus feature in THUNDERSTRIKE #18 — an eight page Tales of Asgard story featuring Young Thor, the Young Enchantress, and Young Loki. Tom said the backup will mirror the themes running through the lead feature. Ron Frenz and Al Milgrom provide the pictures for THUNDERSTRIKE.

ITEM! It's Thor vs. a possessed

War Machine over the streets of New York in THOR #484, brought to you by Roy Thomas and the incredible Sandu Flores! Writer Roy revealed, "Loki is looking for a powerful body, since Thor destroyed the body-arm that was basically holding him together. Loki chooses to take over War Machine, so he can get his revenge on Thor!" Roy promised plenty of action, noting that this time, Loki won't stop till Thor and Sil are dead!
